Introduction: ICT has changed the scenario of libraries. Due to emergence of ICT, the way of handling books and other reading material has completely changed. The current seminar is aimed at showcasing unparallel information on the latest trends and development affecting future of libraries which in turn posing different issues and challenges to library professionals. The emerging issues and challenges are needed to be handled successfully for the future survival of libraries and library professionals. User’s perception, demands and information seeking behavior have changed over the years; the user’s wants to have more efficient, reliable and authentic information in various forms and formats at reduced costs and time. This has created challenges to libraries and library professionals to reshape the future of libraries in terms of information products, services and staff. The user community is moving from traditional ways of accessing and acquiring information towards advance techniques of accessing and acquiring information of their interest. The latest trends and developments are leaving everlasting affects on the future of libraries. However, the issues and challenges libraries are facing today will be the main concerns of the event. Furthermore, the seminar will also try to highlight various strategies to handle the issues and challenges libraries are facing and future prospects of libraries will also be discussed in the present scenario. The seminar will be beneficial for the faculty members, library and information professionals and scholars from all over India.
